Man duped of Rs 10 L on pretext of securing Delhi Metro job – first e-zero FIR lodged in Delhi

ALOK SINGH
NEW DELHI, MAY 21

THE DELHI Police registered the first e-zero FIR on May 16 after a man was allegedly cheated of Rs 10.25 lakh in the name of being provided a job in the Delhi Metro. The Indian Express has learnt.

Sources said the FIR was registered by the Northeast District's Cyber Police after a complaint regarding the scam was filed by the victim at the National Cyber Crime Reporting Portal (NCCRP).

As per procedure, the NCCRP will automatically send the complaint to the Delhi Police's CCTNS, which is looked after by the Crime Branch, and further sent to the concerned area police station.

Delhi has 15 cyber police stations, one for each of its 15 police districts.

Sources said the first e-zero FIR was registered under sections 318(4) (offence of cheating and dishonestly inducing the delivery of property), 319(2) (cheating by personation), and 340 (using a forged document or electronic record as genuine) of the Bharatiya Nyaya Sanhita.

When contacted, DCP (Northwest) Bisham Singh confirmed the development.

An officer said, "Soon after receiving the e-zero FIR, it was converted in a regular one. A dedicated team was formed, and a probe was started."

The officer added that the victim was a lawyer, who came in contact with the alleged fraudster two years ago. The money was given by the victim in multiple instalments in the past two years via UPI payments.

WOMAN KILLED IN UK Husband on run denied pre-arrest bail by court

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, MAY 21

EIGHT MONTHS after a 24-year-old Delhi woman was murdered in East London, a Delhi court on Wednesday denied pre-arrest bail to her husband, who is absconding.

Additional Sessions Judge Vinod Kumar Meena of Dwarka court denied the man anticipatory bail after hearing arguments for an hour.

The man, accused of murdering his wife, was reportedly last spotted withdrawing money from a bank in Gurgaon on March 4. He has been on the run since last November, when his wife's body was found in the boot of his car in East London. A postmortem report had listed strangulation as the preliminary cause of death.

The Delhi Police had earlier issued a Look Out Circular against him, after he was suspected to have arrived in the Capital. It had subsequently declared him a Proclaimed Offender on May 1.

Last December, an FIR was lodged in the case based on a complaint filed by the victim's parents.

Woman creates fake Insta profile to check if husband had affair, arrested

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
NEW DELHI, MAY 21

SUSPECTING THAT her husband was having an affair with another woman, a 26-year-old woman from East Delhi's Ghazipur created a fake Instagram profile and sent her husband a follow request.

Her suspicion, however, landed her in trouble as the woman was arrested on Tuesday for allegedly impersonating another woman who she thought was having an affair with her husband and uploading her morphed pictures, said police.

According to a police officer, the incident came to light when a 30-year-old woman filed a complaint stating that someone had created a fake Instagram account in her name and was posting her morphed photographs. Police then tracked the SIM card linked to the account.

It was found that the SIM was registered in Ghazipur, where the accused was traced and arrested.

Police said that in 2023, the accused got married to a man, who works in Nangoli and lives there with a relative.

She had allegedly been suspecting an affair between her husband and the complainant ever since she saw an old photo of them.

"The photo was taken before they were married. The accused then saw that her husband and the complainant followed each other on Instagram," a police officer said. The accused allegedly logged into her husband's Instagram account and sent level messages to the complainant, who then blocked his profile, said police. It was then that the accused allegedly created the complainant's fake profile.

"She took photos from the complainant's account and morphed them to post on the fake account. She then started interacting with the friends of the complainant on Instagram to get more information about her and customise the account accordingly," the officer said.

The accused sent her husband a follow request and waited to see if he would accept. "During questioning, her husband said that he was not aware of the fake account and didn't even notice that he was blocked by the complainant," the officer added.

● ELIZABETH REID, VP, HEAD OF GOOGLE SEARCH

'AI overviews have boosted searches'

Google Search is being reimagined for the AI era. As the curiosity engine of the world changes itself to take on changing user needs and challenges of new incumbents, Nandagopal Rajan spoke to Elizabeth Reid, VP, Head of Google Search, on the sidelines of Google I/O about the changing search landscape, AI overviews and its impact on online business, as the new AI Mode being launched this week. Excerpts:

What are the behavioural changes you are seeing in users in times of AI overviews?

We are seeing a couple of different behaviour changes. First, people are searching more. People think of questions, but they don't always ask them. They decide, is it worth their time? Is it going to be too hard? Is it going to work? And it's sort of like a split second calculation.

With AI overviews, because it is answering new types of questions, people learn over time and start asking more of the questions because they have confidence they can get the response. The second thing is, we particularly see this with sort of these longer, harder questions; people will often ask more questions around how to do something. We are seeing more searching overall.

We get the sense that a lot of people don't want to do a deep dive, they just want to see the overview, because that's the gist of what they were looking for. Is that a realisation you have also had?

When people come in with a question, we want to make sure we give them a great response. But often they come in with the idea that they only have one question, and then, based on the response, they get intrigued to learn more. So they might dive in deeper on a web page, or they might decide they are going to ask another question accordingly. We see that the clicks to web pages when AI overviews exist are of higher quality. People spend more time on these pages and engage more. They are expressing higher satisfaction with the responses when we show the AI overviews. But the ultimate test is, are you willing to pick up your phone an extra time today to ask a question? And so that's really great to see.

As you are reimagining search, are you seeing a positive or negative change in the business models, because a lot of online is dependent on search.

AI overviews are designed to be part of the main search experience, and our proven business model there has really continued to work. At this point, AI overviews is used by over 1.5 billion users each month, and our queries continue to grow and our revenue continues to grow. And as we look to AI Mode, we have confidence that that business model can continue.

think the ads will get more relevant and the websites we be more hyper relevant. People will ask more specific questions. But then there's still a lot of choice, and when there are a lot of choices, there continues to be an opportunity for ads, and we're looking forward to starting to test that in AI mode. But first we wanted to get the product right.

AI overviews for a specific query, is that getting better each time, or is it almost always the same?

We have made a lot of advancements since we rolled it out a year ago. It can get better with an upgrade in the model — we are talking about rolling out Gemini 2.5 more; but within it, we continue to finetune it. We have raters who help us understand how to improve the factuality, how to improve the helpfulness.

Sonata Software launches AI agent

PADMINI DHRUVARAJ
Bengaluru, May 21

SONATA SOFTWARE HAS launched AgentBridge, a platform designed to accelerate AI-powered enterprise transformation. The new platform enables organisations to centrally design, deploy, and govern intelligent AI agents across business functions. The company said that enterprises today face challenges with fragmented AI initiatives, siloed tools, and disconnected systems, all of which contribute to inefficiencies and limited return on investment. AgentBridge aims to solve these issues through a unified multi-agent orchestration platform. This allows for the creation, deployment, and lifecycle management of AI-powered workflows from a centralised, enterprise-grade marketplace. AgentBridge incorporates built-in role-based access controls, large language model (LLM) guardrails, and audit-ready logging to ensure robust security, compliance, and governance. The platform's modular, no-code interface is designed to empower both business and IT teams to build and scale AI agents with speed. AgentBridge also supports integrations with leading cloud providers, enterprise resource planning systems, and enterprise databases. Rajsekhar Datta Roy, chief technology officer of Sonata Software, said, "AgentBridge directly addresses the industry's growing need for scalable, secure, and compliant AI deployment. It empowers enterprises to drive adoption with governance and observability, enabling real efficiencies, new revenue streams, and next-level automation."

India Inc's fixed assets up 7.6% in FY25, passenger cars rise highest

INDIA INC'S FIXED assets grew 7.6% in FY25, with the passenger cars segment witnessing the highest rate of 20.6%, according to a Bank of Baroda report.
